

LOCAL DEVELOPMENT THROUGH THE LENSES OF FOUNDATIONAL ECONOMY

MATILDE SEMINARS

When: 8th September, 11:00-12:30 | WHERE: on Microsoft Team

About

This is the First Seminar of a cycle of online meetings where we discuss some of the crucial aspects of MATILDE. In this case, we deal with a collective of (mainly) European academic researchers working together to develop a new way of thinking which challenges mainstream ideas about what economic policy should be. Their focus is on the foundational economy – including health, care, education, housing, utilities and food supply- because these basic goods and services are a driver of welfare and the basis of citizenship.

Speaker:

Filippo Barbera is Professor of Economic Sociology at the CPS Department of the University of Turin and affiliated with the Collegio Carlo Alberto.

He deals with social innovation, foundational economy and development of marginal areas.

Contacts: daniele.tonelli@eurac.edu

Take part by clicking on this link

Website: <https://matilde-migration.eu/>

MATILDE has received funding from the European Union's Horizon 2020 research and innovation programme under grant agreement No 870831

eurac
research

