

Spatial dynamics and strategic planning in metropolitan areas – SPIMA

ESPON-ECTG Targeted analysis project
Kick off meeting 28-29 November, 2016

Martina Macáková
City of Prague

WAGENINGEN
UNIVERSITY & RESEARCH

Brief introduction of your city as a stakeholder in ESPON-SPIMA

- Key challenges addressed in planning of the city?
  - Institutional and organizational fragmentation
    - Too many municipalities (57 in the City of Prague, 515 in the Metropolitan Region)
    - City of Prague surrounded by one region
  - The donut effect → urban sprawl-related issues (mobility, sustainability)
  - Political uncertainty influencing decision-making on urban developments

- Key expectations from the SPIMA project?
  - Policy recommendations targeted for diverse actors
  - Comparison of Prague with other European cities

Why your city needs a metropolitan planning approach (MPA)?

Indicate key needs for MPA and explain why, for example:

- Overcome asymmetry between jurisdictions and develop a strategic vision for the metropolitan area
- Build (in)formal cooperation between different governance levels: local, regional, national authorities, core city and neighbouring municipalities
- Coordinate preparation and decision making of spatial plans
- Avoid overlapping strategies and duplicating documents
- Balance interests of the core city and the periphery
- Integrate sectoral policy issues in urban plans
- Provide understanding of complex interconnections

Which key actors will benefit most from a metropolitan planning approach?

Indicate the relevant actors and explain why, for example:

- Citizens and community groups
- Public authorities
  - City Districts and surrounding municipalities
  - Municipal departments and city organizations
  - National and regional authorities
  - Decision makers and policy makers
- Private sector
- European Commission (Urban Agenda)